GLEANED FROM THE MAILS.

The United States government has awarded to Charles A. Ferguson, owner of the ship Herefordshire, of London, the sum of $2,574, for detention and expenses incurred by that vessel in rescuing the passengers and crew of the ship John Gilpin, wrecked off Cupe Horn, and taking them to Bahia; also to Captain Thomas S. Scott, commander of the H., a service of silver plate, consisting of six pieces, for his noble conduct on that occasion.

It is estimated that there are 103,505,000 laying fowls in the country, of which 50,000,000 average one egg a day throughout the year. This would give the annual crop of 18,250,000,000 eggs; and these, at eight cents per dozen, would be worth $121,666,566! Eggs-traordinary!!

The price for writing congressional speeches has been The price for writing congressional speeches has been reduced to $10; at least that is the sum which the Fort-land papers say that Hon. John M. Wood agreed to pay the former editor of the Advertiser, whom he employed to write his letter of acceptance and speech to deliver on his re-election to Congress; neither of which sums being his re-election to Congress; neither of which sams being paid, they are now part of the subject-matter of a suit between the parties. The Newburyport Herald remarks upon it that "if the truth could be known there are members of Congress from Massachusetts who would appear no better than the Maine man—men who not only have their speeches written for them, but who publish speeches which they do not even deliver; and that were speeches which they do not even deriver; and that were it not for the newspaper men about Washington, the reporters, and speech-writers, very many of the members would never be heard from, more than though they had been swallowed by the same whale that took in Jonah." This is rather hard, since the Herald is an opposition paper, and Mr. Wood one of the smartest (!) men in the Maine delegation—full as smart and full as honest, it appears, as Governor Morrill, who stole his proclamation from Minister Chapin.

It is estimated that there are 50,000 horses in the State of Massachusetts, 221,000 in the New England States, and 4,500,000 in the United Statea. Ohio stands fore-most in the number of horses, New York next, Penn-sylvania next, Kentucky next, and Minnesota last of all. Estimating the horses of Massachusetts at $75 per head, their value will be $3,750,000, and all the horses in the United States at the same rate, would make a value of $337,500,000, or more than three times the whole cotton and woollen manufacturing capital of the Union. The interest is a most important one to the wealth and prosperity of the States.

THE DISEASE known as black-tongue, which prevailed In Southern Georgia during the spring among the cattle and deer, has spread to the neighborhood of Mobile, and has also reached Wilmington, N. C. One or two cows in the latter place have died with it. A Douglas man at Springfield, Illinois, had some perplexity in fixing one of their flags on the occasion of the senator's reception. It was an old campaign flag, and when first hoisted, the motto stood, "The Constitution—Buchanan and Breckinridge." The Douglas men could not stand that, so they pulled it down and amended it thus: "The Constitution—and Breckinridge." That was awkward, and it was again fixed: "The Constitution—and—." This made so much merriment that the troublesome flag was lowered again, and the constitution are the foundation of the transaction, and upon which it must either stand or the committed that offence.

Mr. Norris (for the defence, said, as the District attorney had told the jury, this was a case of more than ordinary character, and they should, on that account, be the more careful in weighing the evidence presented to them. The District attorney also made a statement to them which indicated at once the difficulty and embarrassment under which he labored in sustaining the case. And this is the point that lies at the foundation of the transaction, and upon which it must either stand.

the city, both night and day. On the 13th of the month an additional force of 40 men was put on duty, for the purpose of forming a part of the night watch, and in assisting the day police in the discharge of their duties. The two lieutenants created by a recent law of the corporation (which I have always considered indispensably necessary) have rendered important service by uniting with me in looking after, and superintending the operations of the day and night forces. That part of the force allotted particularly for night service: have been divided into thirty-one patrol beats, and two men allotted to each beat, and eight others have been detailed for other special duty. On some few occasions during the month of July I have found it necessary to concentrate large bodies of the force at certain points, for the purpose of counteracting the ascertained intentions of large large bodies of the force at certain points, for the purpose of counteracting the ascertained intentions of large parties of persons to violate the law, and which invariably had the desired effect. Many complaints emanating from respectable citizens in relation to gangs of disorderly persons collecting at street corners and other places have been attended to, and mearly all of them have been suppressed. The entire force under my command have been vigilant, and, I think, attentive to their duties generally, as the fruits of their labors will exhibit. I will state the number brought to the guard-houses during the month: number, 274; white, 179; colored, 95; males, 243; females, 31, of which number, 106 have been committed to the workhouse, and, in addition to this number, 74 have been accommodated with lodging. I cannot close this report without congratulating your Honor, and through you the entire city, upon the peace and order now prevailing throughout this metropolis.

Mr. Norms withdrew his objection, and both parties were placed upon trial.

The jury was then empanelled and sworn, and the charge was read to them.

Mr. Caoss (for the prosecution) then stated that the circumstances of this robbery, he was informed, were as follows: Mr. Cornell was proceeding out Fourteenth street, on his way to Columbian College, and had nearly reached the boundary of the street at the foot of the hill when he was accosted by five men, among them the prisoners at the bar, who first asked him for tobacco and then for a quarter, and afterwards all his money, jewelry, and, he believed, some particles of his clothing, the delivery being enfoiced by presenting a pistol at his head. He did not know which of the five it was, and did not care, for they were all acting together, and each one of them was responsible for the crime. It was an offence not only against properry but against person, and was attended with such violence as convinced him that if he kad made the slightest resistance they would have been willing to have committed murler as well as rebleze. The witness then testified that he believed that the cap which he saw Heissler wear was the same he had seen on one of the parties that robbed him, and that one of the tallest men held the pistol at a is head.

William Johnson (sworn) testified that on Saturday night, (the 3d of April) about 9 o'clock, George Johnson, Gus. Heissler, Thomas Brown, and Edward Meads, and himself went from the Northern Liberty market as far as Fourteenth street, and kept on until they came to a small grocery store, when Brown asked them to go in and get some cigars. They all went in and got cigars, and left without paying for them. Johnson and Heissler and Brown went up on the same side of the store and kept out Fourteenth street, and Meades and himself kept on the right hand side. When near the boundary he saw Brown, Johnson, and Heissler were scarching Mr. Cornell's pocket; George Johnson asked Cornell to give him a quarter, which the latter did. While he was giving the quarter, Heissler went up and tried to take off his coat. He told them not to take off his coat; he had taken and returned the hat.
